To whom it may concern,

One of the elements of the Isle of Man Government's Digital Strategy was the creation of a Digital Health Record for the Department of Health and Social Care. A key objective of this programme of work was to find a reliable and experienced partner to back scan the department's library which consisted of approximately 15 million sheets of paper.

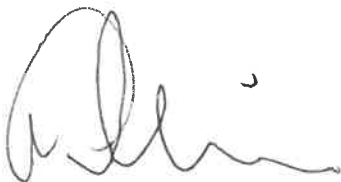

After an extensive and comprehensive government procurement process we chose MISL who were partnering with a local company for this objective.

The back scanning objective has now been running since March 2017 and to date we have found MISL to be a knowledgeable, organised, reliable and conscientious company to work with.

As with any programme of work this size there will be challenges but in these moments their Technical & Operations Director Jon McKennon has always stepped up to the plate, been pro-active and I have found him to be not only helpful but also flexible.

I have no hesitation in recommending MISL for any large and complex scanning programmes of work.

Yours Faithfully,

Mr Gary Williams
